

We want to hear from you as we develop Mississippi's future transportation system

This is your on-line opportunity to provide input to MULTIPLAN 2040.

MULTIPLAN, which stands for Mississippi's Unified Long-Range Transportation Infrastructure Plan, sets our state's course of action for meeting future transportation needs. The goal is to look at the big picture and answer the questions, 'What do we expect from our transportation system over the next 25 years, and how can we get there?'

The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) and the Jackson, Hattiesburg and Gulf Coast Metropolitan Planning Organizations (MPOs) are working together to reach this goal. MDOT is responsible for the state as a whole; the MPOs have the same responsibility for each of their respective urbanized areas. Together, with your input, we are creating an all-inclusive plan that addresses our urban and rural transportation needs statewide.

You and your friends, family and neighbors will be presented with a series of topics on which you can provide your ideas and feedback. Your input will be taken into account by the transportation planners – or “listeners” – who are listed above. We will keep you posted on the impact your ideas and opinions are making.

For more information about those who are listening or to contact them, visit the websites below:

Whether it is on-line or during a face-to-face meeting, we hope you will take part in developing Mississippi's future transportation system.
